NATURALIZATION IN MAINE.—The recent Legislative action on the subject of naturalization and the suffrage of naturalized citizens, in Maine, is comprised in two laws, which contain some important changes. One provides that no person of foreign birth shall vote in the State unless he shall, within three months at least before the day of election, exhibit to the regularly constituted authorities of the town or city in which he resides his naturalization papers, and the authorities shall enter his name in a book, to be kept for the purpose, together with the date of the issue of the papers, and the court by which the same are issued. The authorities are not to enter his name in the check list, if they are satisfied the naturalization papers are not genuine, or the person producing them is not the person to whom they were issued. Another act annuls the naturalization power of the Courts of the State, nor declares that no court of the State, or any functionary of any Court created by the authority of the State, shall hold or exercise any jurisdiction in the administration of the laws of Congress growing out of the naturalization laws; nor shall any Court take cognizance of any application of any alien to be admitted to become a citizen, to make any record or grant or issue any certificate or other document or paper, whereby any alien shall be naturalized, or made a citizen of the United States.

New Publications.

THE MAYFLOWER, AND MISCELLANEOUS WRITINGS. By Harriet Beecher Stowe, author of Uncle Tom's Cabin, &c., &c. Boston: Phillips, Sampson & Co. 1855.

Anything from the pen of Mrs Stowe is sure of a welcome reception by the reading public—for there is always both pleasure and profit in the perusal. The present volume was a republication of a series of New England sketches, written some years ago, under the title of the "Mayflower," but then of limited circulation, and now entirely out of print. They are touching and beautiful sketches, of the highest moral tone, and calculated to arouse and stimulate all the higher and holier instincts of humanity, and to inculcate pure religious principles. In addition to these, are many miscellaneous articles of an interesting character, from the pen of the same writer.

THE SLAVE OF THE LAMP. A Posthumous Novel. By William North, author of Anti-Coningsby, &c. New York: H. Long & Brother.

This work, which we have noticed in advance, is in many respects characteristic of its talented but eccentric author. As a story, it is much above the ordinary run of novels, and there are many thoughtful and many brilliant passages. There are some objectionable things in it, however, in regard to tone and expression. One great point of interest is in the application of some parts of it to the author himself—portions of it being undoubtedly his own auto-biography, and being written within a short time before he took the fatal poison which ended his life.

LIONEL LINCOLN, or, The Leaguer of Boston. By J. Fenimmore Cooper. Complete in one volume. New York: Stringer & Townsend. 1855.

These are the March issues of the new and cheap edition of Cooper's works, now publishing by Messrs. Stringer & Townsend. Lionel Lincoln is one of the most attractive of the novels of that popular American author. The Chainbearer is an interesting tale of the early settlements of Northern New York, and illustrates some of the author's views upon the vexed questions of the relations of landlord and tenant.

Messrs Dav'l Bugbee & Co., are agents for the edition of Cooper's works.

CHEERY FOR THE POOR.—Notice was given on last Sabbath, at several of the Churches, that the "Billings and Holden Society," would give a Concert of Sacred Music at the City Hall, for the benefit of the Poor, on Thursday evening of this week, at 7 o'clock. This is well, and all that can be raised in that way, and for such an object, is greatly needed, and will no doubt, be judiciously appropriated by our worthy City Missionary.

APPLICATIONS FOR BOUNTY LAND.—During the first month which elapsed after the passage of the new bounty land act, forty thousand three hundred applications for its benefits were received at the Pension office. On the first day of the second month, April 4th, three thousand four hundred applications were received.

Launched from the yard of the Messrs Parker in Calais, on the 3d inst., a fine schooner called the "G. D. King," of 172 tons burthen.

THE LAST OF THE MAMELUKES. Selim Pasha, who was killed at Eupatoria, who was esteemed as a brave soldier, was called the last of the Mamelukes, he being the only one who escaped from the massacre at Cairo of that terrible but celebrated militia. Seeing all his companions falling under the fire of the Viceroy's soldiers, crowded as they were in the citadel of Cairo, he took the bold resolution of urging his horse to the steepest and taking the leap. The animal was killed by the fall, and the rider lay for some time motionless. Equally astonished at so much resolution and good fortune, Mehemet Ali ordered him to be spared, and at the end of some days he regained his strength.

MARTINET IN CUBA. The Cleveland Herald from China speak of the defeat of the French at Shanghae by a despotic republic. The London Shipping Gazette, in reviewing the news, says:

"The insurgents have now held possession of the city of Shanghae for fifteen months. The latest news is, that a very large portion of the people of Kiangsoo, the most populous Province, have joined the Kaolin insurgents; and the important City is reported to be in their hands.—The Imperialists are said to be concentrating their forces, and confident to no little extent on being able to prevent the enemy passing from the province to the city."

The case of Teacher Worcester

We are rejoiced to announce that the Superintending School Committee, at their meeting last evening, in reference to the case of David Worcester, Esq., teacher of the High School for Boys, passed the following vote:

Voted—That Mr. Worcester have a hearing before the Committee on Wednesday, evening, April 11th.

We are glad to learn that the Committee, perceiving the just conclusions of the case, have given this to Mr. Worcester and the public here, who take an earnest interest in this affair, an opportunity to be heard, and to vindicate himself from the charges made against him, if indeed there be any. The hearing will be had at the City Hall at half past seven, and will undoubtedly call together a large attendance.

The Committee on Public Schools, who were required to report as to the expediency of limiting the Boys' High School to purely English Studies, made a report at length—coming to the conclusion that it is for the best method at present to keep the High School upon its present basis of studies, and to use as few changes as possible in the mode of teaching.

The London Times says the total expenditure upon the war estimates for 1855-6 will be forty millions, or some like two thirds of the entire revenue of the state.

It is the invariable practice throughout Holland to bid down instead of up at an auction. MATTERS IN LAVACA.—The following extract of a letter to the "State of Maine," will show some of the difficulties with which the cause of freedom has to contend in the new territory; and the disposition and power of the slaveocracy of the neighboring States to control, browbeat and intimidate the free settlers. It is not wonderful, under such a state of things, that the election has been carried by the hired bullies of slavery:

LAWRENCEVILLE, TEX. March 15, 1855.

Quilts as each negro is transported in our city, a day or two since. It seems that some how or other, a slave, (a woman) made her appearance among us and claimed to be free—said she had set free papers, and was from Missouri. After examining her papers at the House of one of our diligent, we were he was doing housework, a man called and demanded her, saying that she belonged to a man in Missouri—that she was a slave, and that he was confident he knew her, but he could not make oath of it. That was on Saturday afternoon, and before evening some dozen strangers gathered about the house, and said she never should go out of the house alive, they having revolvers in hand. The news rapidly spread, and with considerable numbers repaired to the house. The demandants said they would take her by force if she was not given up, and also said they did not care a straw whether we gave her up or not, for they could take her by force—and part of them mounted their horses to go and get their forces, while others ran round to guard the house, so that she might not be put on the underground railroad and thus be taken away from them. Much excitement existed, and our citizens concluded that she should not be carried out of Lawrence without any show of legal process or of her being sold in bondage. This seemed just what the Missourians wanted, and they liked it so well that not a few of us thought we saw something in both of the curtain—that there was political game in the move. It soon became a general opinion that she was indeed a slave, and had been secretly brought here in hopes that she would not be given up, and thus an excuse could be found for a band of slave catchers to come in and injure her. This, it will at once be seen, would have been just the best excuse they could have for rousing the lion in Missouri and insuring a large colonization for our coming election. She appeared to have little or no anxiety about being carried back, nor indeed about anything else. This only confirmed the opinion that it was all for game.

A meeting was called and held late the same evening, to make inquiries into the case, and a committee was appointed for this purpose, and instructed to report the next Sunday morning. The facts so far as possible were investigated and a report was made, confirming the opinion above expressed. Upon which she was delivered up, and they were beat at their own game. Several of us were overpersuaded to say it was too bad, that it had all fallen through—the slave was quietly returned, and, disappeared, by those who brought her here.—This transaction has alleged the fury of the people of the free State very much. They are convinced the Lawrence is not a slave catching neighborhood, but that when one of the slaves from the other side of the line runs up here among us, we will not as master turn out to run him away. At first, we are not now prepared to adopt any such like a policy. What may be done in the future, neither I nor any one else can predict. Possibly it may not be so easy to get a slave out of this city a two years from now. But running away slaves is not favorable to the cause of freedom here at present.

THE RECIPROCITY TREATY. We learn that a despatch has been received at the Custom House in this city, from I. D. Andrews, containing the important information that another treasury circular is to be issued, legislating the annexation in the Secretary's late interpretation to the admission of lumber under the reciprocity treaty. Thus all boards, beams, planks, laths and other manufactured articles sawed, if imported in the rough, were to remain dutiable, but exempted in their entirety, as escaped sawdust at the timber or lumber required to be in the treaty, articles entered under the same designations, or any other articles of wood, manufactured or whole or in part, by planing, turning, splitting, shaving, or any process otherwise than those flowing or sawing, must be considered as containing labor to the duty imposed by the treaty, being the first important step of work. This simple but decisive interpretation, also strengthens the opinion that the Administration will not accept any such construction as that between London and Paris, from the 1st of 1855.

A Statement of the School Committee.

At a meeting of the Superintending School Committee of the City of Bangor, held at their office on Friday evening, April 6, 1855, it was Voted, That the following communication be made to Messrs. R. S. Morrison, and others as Committee of the Associate Alumni of the Bangor Boys' High School," Joseph Bryant and others and Israel D. Norcross and others, in answer to their respective memorials requesting a meeting of this Committee to be called, at which the charges against David Worcester Esq., late teacher of the Boys' High School, should be investigated, and an opportunity offered to reply, viz.

The Committee have considered the request of the memorialists, and would respectfully reply, that as the gentleman whose character as a teacher is involved in the investigation asked for, has since heard the charges which have been brought against him, and had an opportunity to reply as fully as he desired, any further investigation would in their opinion be superfluous, and as he himself has not requested it, improper.

The Committee regard it as due to the large and respectable body of memorialists, to state here, that they have not acted in the matter referred to, but with great deliberation, and from a deep sense of duty to the public. The conclusion was forced upon them, not so much by the open and uncontradicted statements of others, as by their own observation and by the explicit admission of the teacher himself, in regard to the laxity of his discipline, that the best interests of the school required that it should be transferred to other hands.

In seeking to accomplish it's object, it was their endeavor to proceed with the utmost possible degree of kindly consideration for the feelings of one whom they themselves, no less than the great mass of their fellow citizens, sincerely respected and esteemed.

Accordingly it was voted unanimously that a reply statement should be rendered to Mr Worcester, to be accepted with the understanding, that in event of no further action being had on the part of the Committee, he should resign his office at the close of the first term. The conditions of the re-appointment, it was intended, if Mr Worcester so desired, should be known only to himself and to the Committee. This action, it will be seen, left the door open for the incumbent to be still retained, in case there should be within the time specified any material improvement in the management of the school, while upon the supposition that there should be a change, provision was made for its taking place without detriment to the reputation of Mr W., and after a length of time sufficiently ample to enable him to make arrangements for the future. The decision of the Committee was announced to him, and at his own request the matter was left for his consideration. Within a few hours afterwards, however it was generally reported in the city, as coming from Mr W. himself, that he had been turned out of office. Here the matter rests.

Per order of the S. S. Committee
O. B. PATCH, Secretary.

For the Daily Whig and Courier

MR EDITOR. I consider it due to myself and my patrons to make some explanations in regard to my position relative to granting certificates for procuring spirituous liquors for medicinal use, as reported in your paper of Monday, among the doings at the Physicians' meeting on Saturday evening last. I wish plainly to define my position, and then I am ready to defend it. In the first place I acknowledge the necessity of the use of alcohol in extracting the medicinal principles of such drugs as do not yield their virtues to other agents and I will here ask further, its convenience in preserving many compounds, which would otherwise subject the physician and apothecary to great trouble and loss of time. Thus far I acknowledge its legitimate claims. I know of but one disease in which spirituous liquors alone, unmixed with drugs, have ever been claimed as a specific, that is the bite of the rattlesnake, when it has been said that those persons who have been bitten, after having drank several pints of whiskey in a wonderful short time, have generally recovered. Now, sir, if in this case the whiskey operates homœopathically—if poison kills poison—we must certainly admit that the doses are allopathic, and more so, and that such is the manner in which it is too often administered. But, be that as it may; I fear that like the numerous predecessors, it will prove to be only a "nine days wonder."

But to the resolutions. I will pass over all preliminaries, and notice only a clause in the second or last reported. "We will only give prescriptions of such liquors to patients and families under our charge, when in our judgment they are needful." Here, sir, is where I rebel. If those physicians who repudiate the use of liquor as a medicine, actually use them to a very limited extent, act in good faith with that resolution, they bind themselves to enforce the most stringent and arbitrary principles of a sumptuary law; the individual is debarred from thinking and deciding for himself; he must in all cases pertaining to the use of spirits in his family, employ his physician to decide for him. If we, as members of the medical profession, voluntarily agree to assume such responsibility, let us carry out the principle with the picture to its perfection, and forthwith shave our heads and put on the cowl.

I have not said that I would not grant certificates; far from it; but what I object to is enforcing its necessity in every case as a medicine, and depriving myself of the right to indulge the peculiar prejudices and preferences of my patrons and patients, when the use of liquors would be admissible, and in my opinion would not be made bad use of.

I will refrain from making any comments on the last clause of the above resolve, and will only add that the resolution, as amended, was passed after I left, I shall. Our worthy Mayor and City Government, may depend upon my hearty co-operation in their endeavors to suppress the sale of intoxicating drinks, and if any one shall infer from the above remarks, that I would wish to evade my share of responsibility in the matter with my medical brethren, I will assure him or her that such a supposition is quite unlike my meaning. Very truly yours,

For the Daily Whig and Courier.

The reply of the School Committee to the memorial asking for a hearing of the charges against David Worcester, Esq., teacher of the Boys' High School, is a most singular document, and in an eminent degree proves that "facts are not in his." The Committee are now on paper, and they state, that is, a majority of them, Messrs Godfrey, Smith, Bean and Bartlett, that The Committee, in reference to Mr. Worcester, gave him an opportunity to hear the charges made against him, and to reply in full. The only opportunity so granted was at a meeting of the Committee at the Common Council Room when Samuel Gurney, Esq., made a speech in opposition to Mr. Worcester, as a teacher. Mr Worcester replied briefly and made his explanations. The impression made upon the mind of the writer of this, and upon other persons present, and even upon the minds of a portion of the Committee, and among them Mr. Bean and Mr Weaver as stated to us by the gentlemen themselves, was that Mr Worcester stood as well at the close as at the commencement of the meeting. The reply of the Committee concedes nearly this, but makes a declaration that the necessity of the removal was forced upon them by their own observation, and by the explicit admission of Mr. Worcester himself in regard to the laxity of his discipline. It is new of the subject is entirely new, and I care these new acquirers, with new charges, Mr. Worcester has had an opportunity to be heard. The accusers are now the judges; and what we ask, and what we understood Mr Worcester to have made, and which are so potential as to cause his dismissal! These are now the vital issues in this case and they should be met fully and fairly by the Committee. A thousand false and gossiping stories have been set afloat injurious to the character of Mr Worcester as a teacher and a man, and the document which the Committee have put forth is marshalled into the service, perhaps unjustly, of endorsing the whole of them. This must not be.

The Committee have now gone just so far as to make it absolutely necessary, in order to do simple justice to Mr Worcester, for them to go further, and make out their specification of charges of delinquency, which have fallen under their own supervision, and of the admissions which have been made by Mr. Worcester. No friend of Mr Worcester should be satisfied with anything short of this. The public would insist upon it, and this matter should be set right.

The reply of the Committee can, in no sense, be regarded as satisfactory. It is a dodge, or something worse. It is not prompt to compromise a transaction which cannot bear a full investigation. We ask for more light, and will defer comment until the Committee give utterance.

DUNHAM, in Corinth, on the Sebasticook Mills, on Thursday, the 5th inst., Mr Matthias McDaniels. He was passing over the log sluice with another man, on a weak and defective plank, which broke and let them into the water, about three feet deep. The latter saved himself by catching hold of the side of the sluice. Mr McDaniels was swept through the sluice, and after struggling against the current, sunk near the foot of the waste-way. If proper efforts had been made by those who were near, he might probably have been rescued. He is considered a steady and industrious man, and worked this last winter in the same logging crew with Timothy Lyons, who was killed by the falling of a tree.

FROM NEW BRUNSWICK.—The Halifax Journal of the 2d gives the following description of the appearance of the recruits for the British army, as they arrived from the American cities.

"The brig Andromeda arrived from Boston on Friday morning, with the first instalment of troops for the Foreign Legion, amounting to seventy, most of whom are Hungarians and Germans. They were landed at the Queen's wharf, and marched to the Military Hospital, followed by an immense throng of citizens, who were anxious to have a peep at them. They underwent an examination as to fitness, and only were ejected. If they are dismissed upon the judgment of the doctor, we are inclined to think a majority of them would have been cashiered. They are considered a fair sample of recruits, and will soon learn the right about face. They are comfortably quartered at Melville Island, care having been taken to make them contented. The other instalments are expected daily. Upwards of 5000 have been engaged—the number required will be 10 000—of whom 5000 will be sent to Canada, 2000 to New Brunswick and 3000 to Nova Scotia."

ANDROMEDA TRAGEDY. We learn from the Provincialist of Wednesday last, the brig Andromeda, Capt. Baker, from Boston, with recruits for the Foreign Legion, put into Liverpool, N. S., on Monday last, in distress. The vessel had been struck by a heavy gale on the night of Friday, the 23d inst., when off Cape Sable, and had her bulwarks stove in, and her deck load washed away. Among the latter was a large number of the recruits, who were all drowned. The vessel was then run for Liverpool, where she arrived in a very disabled condition. Of the number of recruits lost, we have not been able to learn, but it is said to be very large.

THE EARTHQUAKE AT BRUSSA.—Most distressing details have been received of the dreadful earthquake that destroyed one-third of the flourishing city of Brussa on the 28th of February. The panic caused by the destruction of the stone buildings is indescribable. The population of Brussa rushed out into the fields terror-stricken. The wounded were dug out of the ruins as rapidly as possible, and conveyed to temporary hospitals. The first day 500 wounded persons were received. It was after the Khans, baths, and mosques, which are all of stone, that the most enormous casualties occurred. The silk spinning factories, belonging to Europeans and natives, have more or less suffered. In Mr Durrant's establishment upwards of 70 poor young girls were killed.

Brussa is celebrated for its natural springs, and is almost sure to disappoint those who visit Hadji Bunts from $7 to $8.

A grave event has just occurred at Moscow.—The large bell of the tower of Ivan-Veliki, in the Kremlin, fell to the ground at the time when the ceremony of swearing allegiance and fidelity to the new Emperor was going on, and by its fall crushed nearly a hundred persons. For a people so superstitious as the Russians, this disaster has appeared a melancholy omen, and the letter which gives an account of the event states that the effect on the public mind is that of great consternation.

From the N. Y. Eve. Post.

The Late Cuban Conspiracy.—Life and Death of Ramon Pinto.

On the 12th of last month, Cuba was—have been the theatre of a bloody revolution. Concha, the Captain General, was to have been shot at the theatre in Havana, from a [illegible] opposite the one he habitually occupies; the shout of independence was then to have been raised, and a [illegible] resistance to the emancipation of the island from Spanish rule to have been punished with instant death. This conspiracy had its centre in Havana, but its ramifications extended throughout the island of Cuba, and the United States.

The chief of the conspirators was Ramon Pinto, news of whose death by the garrote has just reached us.

Pinto was a rich Castelan, from Barcelona, about fifty-one years of age. He was educated for the priesthood, but declined taking orders, and his early life was protected by the [illegible] Duke of [illegible] and Ferdinand VII.—He was at the [illegible] of Madrid in [illegible] of July, 1820, and engaged in the battle of that day with the Royal Guards, who were driven from that city badly beaten. He was also among the volunteers of Madrid detailed to guard the King, and was with him when he was conducted to Cadiz. He was of the small band of the defenders of [illegible] who he delivered up by treachery to the French [illegible], who sold [illegible] at which sword in hand, [illegible] overpowering force. Of the five or six [illegible] soldiers [illegible] alive, Pinto was one.

From Cadiz [illegible] came to Havana, where he has always held the rank and enjoyed the reputation of a gentleman and patriot.

Pinto has always yearned for the independence of Cuba, or at least her [illegible] from Spanish tyranny, and became associated with those who shared his aspirations, both in Cuba and the United States.

He was the founder and director of the Liceo Club, where the conspirators met under the pretext of playing at cards and billiards, and agreed upon their plans.

It was at his place that the documents were found that compromised him with the government and lost him his life. They were written in cypher, the key of which was discovered—He had been until this discovery an intimate friend of Governor Concha, and [illegible] enjoyment of his entire confidence. The Governor followed the clue which he had found, and in course of time discovered most of the leaders of the most formidable plot with which his rule in Cuba has ever been threatened.

The Governor promptly put the island in as perfect a condition of defence as was possible with the means at his command, which he deemed entirely insufficient, and wrote home for aid. The substance of that report was communicated to the Spanish Cabinet on the 8th of March, by [illegible] Castillo. We quote the following account of it (telegraphed to the Paris journals):

"For a long time past General Concha had a presentiment of this conspiracy. From the assassination of the man who had taken Lopez, (Castaneda) and the abortive plot of [illegible], the police at length succeeded in unravelling the thread of [illegible] and it appears from the declarations made and the papers seized, that the plan of the conspiracy had existed long before the arrival of Gen Concha in the island; that the conspirators had considerable resources; that a general rising was contemplated in Cuba, and that the whole was combined with an expedition which was to leave the United States under command of Gen Quitman, accompanied by Henderson and Kinney.

"This expedition had at its disposal four large steamers—the Pampero, which was to sail from Galveston, Texas with 700 men, the [illegible] Webster and Prometheus, which were to sail from Savannah with equal forces; and the remainder to the number of 2600 men, to leave New York in the Massachusetts. This last vessel was detained by the U. S. authorities, in virtue of a demand to that effect, made by the Spanish consul.

"The conspirators deferred the execution of their plan [illegible] to wait the issue of Mr Soule's mission.

"On the decision of the results of that mission the expedition was to depart immediately for Cuba. In order to support it, armed bodies were organized throughout the island, with [illegible] regulations that [illegible] they were disposed in such a manner that in a given time of two or three days these bands could start from points agreed upon.

"The American filibusters had succeeded in deceiving the vigilance of the press, and of our consuls in the United States by propagating the rumor that they were about to proceed to Costa Rica."

We omit the detail of the preparations made by General Concha for the defence of the island, with which our readers are familiar, and proceed with the letter of the Paris correspondent:

"The Council of Ministers listened to the report of M. Batillos with much interest. It was decided in Council that there should leave Cadiz on the 12th, for Havana a battalion of infantry, which is at present on the island of San Fernando; and by the 1st of May there should be ready to embark for Cuba sufficient troops to complete in that island the effective force of 40,000 men. The Governor had ordered the Adjutant by council of war, conformably to existing laws, of [illegible] bands of, more than two men who might be found traversing the interior of the island."

On the day that despatch was forwarded to Paris, March 8, and on the very day they were received by the government, the Minister of Foreign Affairs was asked by Gen Serrano, in the [illegible] all-bate on the [illegible] for an explanation of these despatches. The correspondent of the Paris Presse, writing from Madrid gives the following account of the important statement which was made in reply:

M. Luzuriaga, in the midst of a silence truly solemn, gave a reply as categorical as circumstances permitted.

"A great conspiracy had in fact been discovered, but the Captain General had succeeded in nipping it in the bud. All the principal actors in this drama were in the hands of the authorities.

"The Minister was able to give the assurance that the security of this rich colony was in no danger. Large reinforcements of troops were being despatched to Gen Concha. Spain would bleed from all her veins sooner than support in that quarter of her honor or dishonor.

"On the character of the conspiracy M. Luzuriaga was not as explicit as he himself would no doubt have desired. He only ventured to insinuate the fact which people here would like to doubt, namely, that the origin of this conspiracy came from the United States; and he immediately asserted with energy, and in a manner which produced a profound impression on the Assembly, that all the conspirators arrested were acknowledged partisans of the main cause of slavery.

"On this occasion the Minister made a declaration which reflects the highest honor upon him and the Cabinet whose sentiments he expresses. He said that, without invading the rights of established property, without refusing to compensate them by a suitable manner, the Spanish government was firmly decided to put an end to a barbarous institution which all civilized nations condemned, and which M. Luzuriaga did not fear to call a pest and shame to humanity."

One of the best parts of the Emperor's [illegible] has been to present a diamond pin to [illegible] named Rotsheff, for a campaign [illegible] "The Truth about England."

"A party of small [illegible] [illegible] They were sent from New Hampshire."

Know Nothings in Court. In the Police Court, yesterday, an Irishman being on trial for assault, a witness was asked by the counsel for the defence, if he was a member of the Know Nothings. He declined to answer the question, and the Court refused to compel him, holding that his being a member of such a society would not invalidate his testimony.—Traveller.

Australian papers of January 8th represent that quiet has been restored at Ballarat, and that investigation is going on as to the cause of the late troubles. In the different encounters thirty diggers were killed and above 120 were taken prisoners.

The Melbourne Herald says that it depends on the action of the Home Government, whether Australian Independence shall be postponed to future generations.

The Most Successful Remedy.

REV. WALTER CLARKE'S

Great European Cough Remedy,

—OR—

Universal Cough Mixture,

IS unquestionably the best remedy for Coughs and Chronic Pulmonary Complaints ever discovered. Read the following certificates, and remember they are a few among scores of first rate respectability, and they all live in this State, and are willing to answer all inquiries addressed to them:—Read and judge for yourselves: they are selected from a multitude of the same kind.

From the Rev. John Brown, Lewiston, Me

DEAR SIR:—I have used the European Cough Remedy, (Cough Mixture,) with which I have been afflicted for some time, to my entire satisfaction, and have also employed it in my practice with the happiest results, and am fully convinced that the rest of the Pulmonic medicines are not what it is recommended.—JOHN BROWN, M. D

MISS HANNAH WARD, of North Bridgewater, had for two years suffered a most distressing cough, accompanied with a pain in the side, pleurisy, &c., and in the astonishment of all who knew her, three bottles without any other medicine whatever, completely restored her to health, which she now enjoys.

MR. and Mrs. Hopewell hold themselves ready to answer inquiries respecting the above extraordinary cure, and have all along declared that the European Cough Mixture is the best remedy known for Coughs and the relief of the Chest and Lungs, and as such they recommend it to the afflicted.

I have also heard that Mr. Watson, one of their neighbors, who was given over by his friends to die in consumption, was persuaded to try the European Cough Remedy, and the result was a rapid recovery.

From a Lady's Nurse of Phillips, with severe Cough, commenced attack by Mr. Brewster, Postmaster at Cattle Corner, Aug 24th, 1854. Mr. Walker (Clerk over the Mr. Vanschaack, residing in Greene Kennebec county, Me.) has been afflicted with the Phthisic for a number of years. For the past winter he has so distressed as for breath that he could not lay upon At last hearing of the European Cough Remedy, he sent for a bottle and commenced using it. He is in health restored by the first dose, and from that time he rested well at night. A few bottles completed the cure, and he now desires to recommend this medicine to others, as he is fully assured that it is worthy of the utmost confidence.

The following has been received from John Dresser, Esq., Agent for Paris, Me., dated Nov. 8, 1854

Dear Sir—You will recollect that when you were here last, when my cough of three months standing I had tried all the cough medicines I could obtain without success. Your medicine has relieved it. Have sold and many of my neighbors. Please send me some more medicine immediately.

Yours, &c. JOHN DRESSER

Rev. T. Oliver, West Waterville, testifies to the extraordinary cure of a lady, who, to all appearance, was in the last stage of consumption, so that it was thought she could live but a short time. A single bottle cured her cough, and she speedily recovered. Thus Oliver states that he knows another person who a long time had been afflicted with the Phthisic, with severe cough, &c., who was completely cured by two bottles of the European Cough Mixture.
